

In conjunction with the
*Delaware Valley Green Building
Council*

Cordially invite you to join us for

Family Night at DaVinci

Thursday, May 21, 2009

Socialize with friends and explore the many fascinating exhibits on display throughout the DaVinci Science Center, in Allentown, PA. Enjoy a family-oriented evening that will include entertaining and educational events like a scavenger hunt for kids (of all ages), an informative seminar on renewable energy systems, great food and company!*

Event Highlights

6 PM – 8 PM

Social time and exploration with light hors d' oeuvres and beverages throughout the DaVinci Science Center. Visit our sponsors that will have exhibit tables throughout the Center.

8:00 PM

Join us in the theatre room for an informative seminar* on renewable energy.

(See information on the right)

Presented by Bob Chew

Founder and President of Alteris Renewables™

Seminar qualifies for 1.0 LU's of AIA continuing education credit.

9:15 PM Conclusion

Continuing Education Seminar

“Incorporating Solar and Wind into Pennsylvania Residential and Commercial Projects”

Bob Chew, founder and president of Alteris Renewables, Inc™ will offer an overview of solar, solar electric (photovoltaic), solar thermal and wind turbines including the requirements for good applications, costs and current incentives in PA.

This program qualifies for 1.0 LU of required AIA continuing education credits, including the new requirements for sustainable design education.

Special Event Pricing

AIA and DVGBC Members	$25
Spouses	$15
Children 16 yrs and under	FREE!

Register Online

Look for future program announcements by email and on our website, www.aiaeasternpa.org